Still the Police Claim There Is Not One Such Place in the City of New York.

It is a matter of common report among mblers and men about town that there are now at least one hundred coms of greater or lesser magnitude in this city. This estimate does not include a swarm of petty gamblers season, and it will be many a day bewho are making hand-books in saloons and hotel corridors.

Yet the police calmly announce that there is not a pool-room open in any of the precincts. This appears to be true so far as their official knowledge goes, as no action is taken to secure evidence against the places now existing. In fact, as in the case of "The" Allen's place, exposed by "The Evening World" two days ago, the outposts and policemen seem to be on the best of terms.

Another case of a pool-room, run boldly and openly, although not on so extensive a scale as the Allen establishment, was visited yesterday by an "Evening World" reporter, who found no difficulty in obtaining entrance and placing a bet. Every indication of bookmaking was present, although the business was carried on without unnecessary paraphernalla.

This pool-room is located in one of the most conspicuous buildings in the East Fifty-third street precinct, commanded by Capt. Thomas Reilly. Moreover, it was the subject of a complaint made to Mayor Giroy several days ago. The letter, calling attention to the place, was written by a man who claimed that after he had won a bet taken by the proprietors, they refused either to pay the book stood to lose.

The letter was referred to the Police Commissioners, and was vesterday turned the commissioners, and was vesterday turned book stood to lose.

The letter was referred to the Police Commissioners, and was yesterday turned over to Supt. Byrnes for investigation, after it had been read to the Board. It told of the location of the pool-room and further stated that the applicant for the money he had won, was told that "the police were all fixed."

The allegations contained in this letter were published in "The Evening World" yesterday, yet no steps were taken to close up the place, for it was running yesterday afternoon as though such a thing as police interference was never further from the thoughts of those who sonducted the busices. Sentially there was no fear of a raid and no increase of precautions in anticipation that the formal processing the place of th was no fear of a raid and no increase of precautions in anticipation that the loice might suddenly become aware that a bool-room was being maintained.

With no pretense at concealment, the pool-room is conducted in the back-room, next to the bar of the Vanderbill Hotel, on the northeast corner of car a lexington avenue and Forty-second street. Enough was seen yesterday by an "Evening World" reporter to prove that bets were taken on races at Brighton Beach, odds being posted previous to the running, as well as other information, as to mounts, scratches, dec. A second attack was made on Tucker last evening as he was alighting from the hotel bus at the Hanover Hotel. Philadelphia after yesterdny's game. A fellow in a passing car reached out and struck Tucker. Tommy chased after the r of cond in the sassilant. A Quakerville "bobby" by by instead locked Tucker up for safe keeping, as a mob was gathering about the hotel. A friend bailed Tucker out later.

The barroom of the Vanderbilt Hotel has been rendered famous by many exploits of John L. Sullivan, who is always a guest of Proprietor Matt Clune when in this city. In honor of the distinguished patron of the house, there is on the south wall a full-length pastel portrait of the ex-champlon, taken in the costume in which he defeated Paddy Ryan, Directly under this is the "ticker" that furnishes the information for use of the pool-room.

At the rear of the Forty-second street side is an archway, with handsome curtains fully drawn back, giving entrained to the back room, an apartment about eighteen feet deep, and the full width of the saloon. From this apartment awinging-doors lead to the dining-room, still further back, and half-doors swing into the hallway of the hotel which leads to the Lexington avenue entrance. The fittings are artistic, dark in tone, and a subdued light comes through the screened window at the side.

Here sits a bald, gray-mustached man.
He takes the bet, while a short, blackmustached fellow, attired in a serge suit, outing shirt and straw hat, fills out the memorandum slip. On this slip which is filled in plain view of the bettor, are recorded the odds, horse, position and the initials of the customer. Results are taken from the hallway and takes his stand at the table. Winners walk up and mention the bet, odds and had initials and are paid by the man who received the money. Sometimes bets are paid in the barroom or in the hallway, and linitials and are paid by the man who received the money. Sometimes bets are paid in the barroom or in the hallway, Business was not particularly brisk at the Vanderbilt Hotel pool-room yesterday afternoon, the loungers evidently not relishing the small odds posted in view of the track betting. The patrons of the establishment are fairly dressed, as a rule. looking like sporting men and actors. They lounge about in negliged dress as though careless of time and seeking simply for comfort and diversion. In the group was a sprucely dressed cloured lad, who alone seemed business-like and eager. Now and then a clerk or factory hand from the negliged dress as though careless of time and seeking simply for comfort and diverse backed off the boards, while Arab's cash boxes.

Even on the west side, along Sixth avenue and upper Broadway, it was yesterday spoken of by gamblers and menabout-town as familiarly as any of the resorts of that section. The stewards at Brighton are too lement in dealing with the "stick" riders. It is said that the intervention of Mr. H. K. Vingut, who represents the S. H. and P. R. A. Is responsible for the mildness of the doses administered. The stewards cannot be too strict with steeplechase riders. If they would only rule off three or four at every race there would soon be no available jockeys, and these mock races would come to an end. It was Mr. Belmont's intention to send Lady Violet to the stud this season, and it was only by accident that she was put into training again. Byron Mc-Clelland happened to look the mare over one day and said he thought she could be brought around with careful treatment. Joyner then took her up with the result seen yesterday. The mare won in a canter in the fastest time made at Brighton in some years. She pulled up sound as a bell, and if her legs hold out, the sprinters will have to hurry to beat her in the dashes.

The Turf Congress is considering the advisability of making the lowest weight in overnight events 100 pounds. This will raise the scale o fweights considerably and will give heavy-weight jockeys a chance to ride.

Drum Major has hard luck in his races. A week ago he was left at the post, and yesterday his jockey pulled up just as the flag fell. Coming into the stretch, Drum Major was close up, and his chances looked rosy until Old Dominion bumped into him and nearly sent him over the fence.

Ecarte ought to be shot or ruled off the course. Every jockey that rides him gets into trouble with the stew-ards, and yesterday McLane came very near being kicked by a fall the old horse took. McLane's foot became entangled in the stirrup, and he was dragged some distance before he finally freed the imprisoned limb.

Harry Reed met his own class yester-day and won in a gallop. He was very willing to stop, however, and Sims was weighing in before the other jockeys had turned their horses around.

CHICAGO, July 19.—"I received a letter from Jim Corbett's manager. William Brady yesterday." said Will Davis. of the Columbia Theatre, last night. "Corbett so Brady alleges, has been misunderstood in the discussions with Peter Jackson as to the choice of a battle-ground. He does not insist upon fighting in the South, and is willing to go anywhere that a good-sized purse is offered. I am now certain that the fight will take place. One reason for so believing is that the $20,000 stake money is still intact, and that neither party has hinted at withdrawing the cash deposited."

Parson Davies, when apprised of the contents of Brady's letter, said: "That sounds better. If Corbett will waive the idea of fighting in the South, every detail can be arranged in short order."

Gaitano Conte, a young Italian missionary, arrived in New York from Boston to to-day, and during his stay of a week he will look into the subject of padronism, as revealed by "The Evening World" some time ago.

Mr. Conte is a member of the Boston Association for Protecting Italian Workmen, an association which numbers among its members some of the most prominent men in the Hub. In a circular which the Association has issued is this paragraph, which aptly describes matters just as "The Evening World" portrayed them:
